To whom it may concern

I worked with Dan at the Friends of the Dartmoor Hill Pony Charity which is based on Dartmoor. Our aim is to support and promote the ponies of Dartmoor so they will be on Dartmoor grazing, creating and supporting the flora and fauna that makes Dartmoor the magic place it is.

Dan Corbin joined us in 2013 and worked with us for just over 2 years and added his experience in conservation grazing herds to help with our work on the moor as well as helping us discover new ways to use the grazing ponies to add value to the biodiversity.

He is a very skilled horseman who has an immense all round knowledge of ponies and horses. The animal's welfare is always his main concern and his skills base enables him to give the animals the best possible care and we considered ourselves very lucky to have him as part of our team.

He is a very caring person who has learnt to use his horse skills to benefit others. We have many people, both adults and children who are helped by being in the presence of the ponies to give them the strength to cope with their lives in so many ways.

Dan has a talent for recognising the magic of the ponies and horses to benefit people who need support and how to achieve that support.

Dan has a very unique knowledge and a valuable set of skills which mean ponies, people and the environment can be enhanced with tremendous benefits in all these areas.
